Seeking to complement the turn-of-the-century manor style of this Franklin Lakes home, designer Aparna Vijayan of Ulrich in Ridgewood chose a neutral color palette and a mix of earthy textures for this spacious master bath. "The homeowners wanted low-maintenance materials and a modern take on a manor home bathroom," says Vijayan, who paired oversized vintage Calacatta porcelain tile floors with an Earth Pebble mosaic shower floor. Brookhaven by Wood-Mode maple cabinets painted in Harbor Mist are finished with a soft pewter glaze and leathered Najarian quartzite countertops. Floor-to-ceiling Brandywine fieldstone cladding cleverly obscures an existing brick chimney, adding warmth to the space, while polished nickel fixtures and crystal hardware deliver just the right amount of elegance to infuse the space with old-world manor style. >
